THE POST

Vol. 32, No. 5 DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING Wednesday, February 1, 1978

Clock Winds Down at Mussel Rock

An early morning fog was beginning to lift away from Daly City's Mussel Rock dump as Aladeno Sereni gazed somberly towards the ocean.

"I'm going to come down here Feb. 16 and cry like a baby," he said with emotion.

THE DALY CITY SCAVENGER CO. partner was referring to the upcoming date for the shutdown of the firm's Mussel Rock garbage dump.

The Regional Water Quality Agency has ordered that the dump be closed Feb. 15 because of a concern that landslides at the Coastside site would cause ocean pollution.

"They told me that the dump was sitting on the San Andreas Fault and I say to them 'What isn't'," Sereni said.

THE RUDDY, thick-set scavenger partner is resigned to the dump closing and satisfied that the Mussel Rock transfer station will be built there.

But he confessed to feeling sad that a chapter of his life is closing with the demise of the dump.

"It's been my life for 20 years," he mourned.

IN TWO WEEKS the scavenger company will start cleanup operations at the site, covering the garbage dumping area with three feet of earth.

In the next week, excavation will begin at the southern end of the 140-acre site for construction of the nearly $1 million transfer station.

The scavengers will use the transfer station for compacting Daly City garbage before it is trucked to the Ox Mountain dump near Half Moon Bay for disposal.

"THE TRANSFER station will be easier and cleaner than the dump operation," Sereni said. "But we will all miss being outdoors."

Sereni and partner Jack Eberle began acquiring the dump site in 1956, when state laws outlawed the open burning the company had been doing in Daly City. Four other partners eventually joined the Sereni-Eberle partnership.

The company began its fill and cover dumping operation in 1957. Currently, the scavengers begin work each day at 4 a.m.

AN ERA ENDS

It's a sad time for Aladeno Sereni, a Daly City Scavenger Co. partner, whose firm built the Mussel Rock Dump in 1956 and now must close it Feb. 15.

Council Candidates

This is the third in a series of articles by Staff Reporter Nancy Stancill on the backgrounds and ambitions of candidates for the Daly City City Council.

James Tucker

James Tucker

James J. Tucker lost in his first try for the Daly City City Council in 1976. Undaunted, he began campaigning for the 1978 election six months later.

"People were kind of shocked to see a guy who just lost still coming to City Council meetings," he recalled.

NOW, the 33-year-old San Francisco probation officer believes his chances to be elected to one of three council seats up for grabs March 7 are "damn good."

"I was an unknown commodity in 1976," he said. "I didn't have the exposure or organization."

Tucker believes his involvement in such city activities as the Citizen Advisory Committee for the General Plan and the Clean Community Committee have helped him to meet more people. He's chairman of the Clean Community Committee.

THE CANDIDATE, who will hold a kick-off party Feb. 4 at the Westlake Park Club House, has been campaigning heavily "to bring leadership to the City Council.

"There's a lack of get up and go. Things go on and on and on," he said of the council. "There's no oomph to City Council."

If he is elected, Tucker said he will give "top billing" to Daly City's crime problem.

HE SAID he favors "beefing up the Daly City Police Department. It is currently short 10 officers."

He said he is "fully supportive" of community efforts to prevent crime, such as the Capture organization and the Anti-Crime League.

The candidate, who resides at 173 Mirada Drive, is a native of New York City. He has resided in Daly City since 1970. Tucker holds a master's degree in public administration from Golden Gate University.

Tucker said a major goal would be "to shake up the city's housing rehabilitation program" if he is elected.

"THE CITY has missed one deadline after another. It's tokenism," he said of the federally funded housing fix-up program. "What do you have? One house completed, one house worked on, one in escrow.

"Daly City is not taking care of its own," he continued. "For instance, with senior citizens, it's been too little, too late."

The candidate said he does not favor making city decisions "with our backs against the wall."

He said the recent council decision to go ahead with construction of the Mussel Rock garbage transfer station after Pacifica's withdrawal from the regional arrangement was such a hasty commitment.

TUCKER SAID, however, that he is "more positive than negative" about the $1 million transfer station.

He added that he believes that a Citizens Advisory Committee to study garbage rates should be appointed.

He said he favored an earlier police service contract with the Broadmoor Police Protection District for a six-month period and added that he would not be averse to another temporary contract.

"IF THEY need a little help while they are waiting for liability insurance, we can give it to them," he said of the Broadmoor residents. "But we have got to think about Daly City needs first."

He said the unincorporated area's residents will annex to Daly City "when they are ready to come in. It should be the vote of the Broadmoor people. I don't see the Daly City City Council adopting an attitude of gobbling up land."

Rehab Plan May Be Alive

More federal funding may be available for Daly City's housing rehabilitation program than city officials thought a few weeks ago.

The city's rehabilitation consultant, Ward Connerly, has notified Rehabilitation Committee Chairman William J. Schumacher and Housing and Community Development Act Task Force Chairman Victor Kyriakis that earlier fears concerning stoppage of funding might have been premature.

Connerly told the council recently that the Department of housing and Urban Development might not request release of $160 million in funding for HUD 312 direct fix-up loans.

The council last week passed a resolution to be sent to national officials calling for the release of the funds.

But Connerly has notified the councilmen that $15 million is expected to be released shortly — with $1.5 million earmarked for California cities.

Kyriakis and Schumacher said they believe6d that the beginning of a nationwide protest on the matter was responsible for a quick federal response.

Daly City's rehabilitation program, underway since November, will provide low-cost housing repair loans to residents living in the original Daly City and Crocker areas of the city.

A Golf Cart Caper

It was a scene from a classic Mel Brooks comedy.

Daly City Police Officer Bob Blazer, in hot pursuit of a 16-year-old burglary suspect, realized he couldn't catch the swift-footed youngster on foot.

So Blazer, as the race sped through the Olympic Golf Course, commandeered from a friendly foursome a golf cart to use in the pursuit.

The youth, Blazer said, ran from the golf course through a school yard, back on the golf course, through Westlake Park, the Westlake Estates and eventually into the San Francisco Golf Course, all the time Blazer in pursuit on the golf cart, minus siren and red light.

Finally, after about a 20-minute chase which, according to Daly City Police Lt. Tom Culley covered about 1½ miles as the crow flies and three miles as the youngster ran, the youth, exhausted, collapsed in the arms of Capt. Roger Austin and Lt. Jim Barron, who were positioned near the San Francisco Golf Course Clubhouse.

The youth, who was spotted allegedly committing a burglary at 344 Northgate Ave., Daly City, "didn't get anything but a lot of exercise," Culley said.

A total of five officers were involved in the Thursday afternoon chase.

Water Rationing To End March 1

Daly City residents should get relief from water rationing by March 1.

The City Council Monday voted to rescind the city's water rationing ordinance, one of the strictest in San Mateo County. The ordinance, introduced on first reading, will go into effect by March, according to City Attorney Albert Polonsky.

"The people of Daly City have done a fantastic job of rationing and I think they will continue to conserve water," Councilman Victor Kyriakis said.

Councilman William J. Schumacher noted that Daly City did not raise its water rates during rationing.

Mayor Albert Teglia said the rationing, which began last May, has resulted in cutbacks of up to 45 percent in water usage.

The ordinance imposed stiff fines if residents exceeded an average four-person household allocation of 1,800 cubic feet bi-monthly.

Daly City ordinarily gets about half its water from municipal wells and the other half from San Francisco's Hetch Hetchy system, but during the rationing program usedmuch less San Francisco water.

D.C. Man's Bad Day

Stephen K. Morris, 18, 18 Belcrest Ave., Daly City, didn't have what you might call a good day late Thursday night and early Friday morning.

Morris was stopped in Daly City for a minor traffic violation at about 1 a.m. today. It turned out he was driving a stolen vehicle, taken minutes earlier from San Francisco.

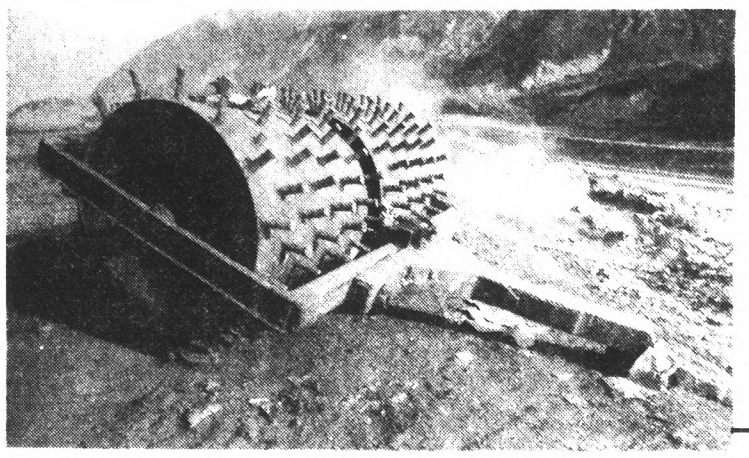
Daly City officers, however, were able to locate Morris' vehicle, it was in Brisbane and is suspected of being a vehicle involved in a hit-and-run incident in that city Thursday.

And, when officers got to the car, they found what appeared to be burglary tools in the front seat and a television set in the trunk.

The television set, it turned out, is owned by a Daly City man who was the victim of a burglary Thursday.

The burglary victim resided only a block away from Morris.

The 18-year-old is lodged in Daly City jail, facing charges of auto theft, burglary and hit-and-run.



NO MORE

Dump

"IT MAKES ME SO MAD when they say we don't work," he said. "My partners are out there, rain or shine. I'd like to see Harold Calder (one of the company's chief critics) out there.

"The criticism is hard to take," he continued. "They accuse you of being the biggest crook in town. I sit there at meetings and keep my mouth shut, but it's hard."

Sereni said he's always known the value of hard work. He was born in Half Moon Bay. His parents, who were artichoke farmers, came from Lucca, Italy, as a young married couple.

"MY MOTHER was 15 and my father was only 17 when they came to America," he said in wonder. "They were just babies."

Sereni believes that the $3.45 monthly fee Daly City residents are charged for garbage pickup is a good value. He pointed out that the 25 percent rate increase the City Council will be considering in the next few weeks is for the cost of using the San Francisco transfer station and for building the new facility.

If it were up to him, he said, he would continue operating the dump at the same cost.

ANOTHER GRIEVANCE is that Pacifica's City Council decided recently that its Coastside Scavenger Co. would not use the Daly City Scavenger Co's transfer station when it is completed. He believes Pacifica will change its mind.

"We've been baby sitting Pacifica all these years at the dump," he said. "If it was up to me I wouldn't want to take them back, but we have a regional permit for our transfer station, so we'll have to."

But Sereni is anxious to show the visitors the dump, so he begins walking.

HE POINTED to the rows of houses which perch on the cliff overlooking the dump site.

He said there have been few complaints from the residents over the years the scavenger company has been at Mussel Rock. Daly City City Manager David Rowe said the city has averaged only "five or six complaints a year."

Sereni pointed out his equipment shed which he said "will be knocked down soon."

HE WALKED ON to the center of dump activity. The faint odor of fresh garbage begins to waft in the ocean air.

Suddenly a large flat pit area comes into view. The active garbage dumping area resembles a huge garden, with bulldozers rather than plows flattening the garbage. Trucks come in at intervals to upturn their fresh loads.

Huge, noisy swarms of seagulls swoop down to grab some tasty morsels, dodging the bulldozers which keep moving in rows. The sounds of the gulls and the machines contrast strongly with the ocean roar.

SERENI SHOWS with pride the neat plant-covered terraces of garbage created by 20 years of dumping. He points out the rock-piled sea wall which he and his partner built 10 years ago as a state requirement.

Someday 72 acres of the landfill site will be an oceanside park, he said.

But for Aladeno Sereni, the smell of the ocean at Mussel Rock will conjure fond memories of the odor of garbage.

Russian Flu on Its Way

Dr. James Bodie, San Mateo County Director of Public Health, warned today that an outbreak of the Russian flu is certain to hit this county later this winter or next winter.

"We have recorded outbreaks of the Russian flu starting in Cheyenne, Wyo., and it's just a matter of time before it hits this area," Dr. Bodie stated.

The Russian flu, according to Dr. Bodie is relatively mild, but is expected to attack persons under 24 years of age and adults aged 50 to 65.

Adults between the ages of 24 and 50 are likely to escape the virus, since a similar flu epidemic occurred worldwide in 1949 and 1950, and many persons in this age bracket are considered to have strong immunity to it.

Dr. Bodie said people in this county have complained of flu-type symptoms lately but he said "there are so many virus infections around this winter it's hard to tell if it's flu or some other kind of virus.

"One way to determine if there is a flu epidemic is to monitor absenteesim in the schools," he added. "Although a San Francisco school recently had a sizeable outbreak of the flu, in this county we have seen no great levels of absenteeism."

The State Department of Health is studying in Berkeley the flu outbreak in San Francisco, and is expected to have identified the strain within several weeks, said Dr. Brodie.

Money-Saving Rationale Not Unanimous

Party Fetes D.C. Employees

Daly City's City Council Monday held a special meeting, complete with champagne and hors d'oeuvres, to fete about 65 city employees.

The occasion was the annual presentation of employe service awards. The event cost about $1,000, according to City Manager David Rowe. Only about half the employees who received awards came to the special meeting and reception that followed.

Rowe said the special meeting was a substitute for the annual employee awards dinner the city has hosted in past years.

Since the dinner was costing upwards of $7,000, the City Council eliminated the affair from the budget last June. Rowe said most employees were sorry to see it go.

He added that the future of the dinner will depend on city finances.

Mayor Albert Teglia, said, however, that the special meeting and reception replacement offered a more dignified occasion than a dinner with an open bar.

Treasurer Tony Zidich, however, said elimination of the dinner didn't save the taxpayers much money, but eliminated a morale-builder for city employees.

Recognized for longevity was William J. Byrne, a retiring 35-year streets worker.

Councilman Anthony Giammona said Byrne "represents what Daly City is all about — someone who was born here, grew up here and who has given a whole career to Daly City."

Three Fire Department employees — George Eberle, Ronald Raymond and Don Campbell — received special awards for suggestions they made for city safety.

Recognized for 25 years of service was Richard E. May.

Employees with 15 years of city service include Frederick H. Anderson, Gary J. Baker, Thomas W. Baldwin, Gus C. Constantinos, Anne L. Dissing, Byron M. Ensinger, Edward G. Guzman, Robert W. Hourigan, Robert A. Ingbrigtsen, Erwin K. Kessler, Harry Lax Jr., and Jay D. Modglin.

Janice G. Autsen, Alfred E. Banfield, Robert W. Blazer, Robert J. Dean, Les Marino, James F. McHenry, James R. Mendiara, John Pappas and Harold L. Roper were commended for 10 years service.

MATE'S COURSE

Navy Fireman Walter K. L. Wolfe, son of Leroy E. Wolfe of 441 Bridgeport Drive, Half Moon Bay, has completed the Basic Electrician's Mate Course.

Politicians Endorse Tax-Saving Measures

By RICK SULLIVAN

A massive, inter-governmental effort to reduce the taxpayer burden in San Mateo County to the tune of some $17 million annually won the unanimous endorsement Thursday night at the first General Assembly of the Congress of Elected Officials.

In an unprecedented gathering of local officials from the county, cities, school districts and special taxing districts, the assembly voiced support of continued planning for self-insurance and bulk purchasing programs designed to financially aid all levels of local government.

County Supervisor James Fitzgerald, chairman and founder of the congress, told 100 public officials that more than $17 million in taxpayer funds can be saved each year if all 78 separate public jurisdictions in the county enroll in the self-insurance and purchasing program.

The Congress of Elected Officials was created in December 1975 to bring together officials of the 19 cities, 25 school districts and 34 special districts and to promote cooperative management among them.

The congress, according to Fitzgerald, is not intended to serve as a region or subregional government nor as a political forum. It is, rather, a congregation of elected officials dedicated to reducing the cost of government.

The successful operation of the insurance and purchasing programs is expected to encourage the Congress Executive Committee to explore a variety of other regional management proposals, including a centralized employment pool and public transportation sharing involving SamTrans and school districts.

The guild annually holds a post-holiday junket to Nevada for fun and relaxation after the busy days of the boutique, Christmas party and card sale.

Incidentally, if you are a KABL devotee you may have heard some familiar names being mentioned on the station's Citizen of the Day announcements. Localites Mrs. Pat Lindsay, Mrs. Helen Corbett, Mrs. Mary Riordan, Mrs. Marie Knowles, Mrs. Velma Zari and Mrs. Margaret Watson have each been honored by the radio station for their many, many hours of volunteer service at Mary's Help Hospital.

LOTS OF clothing, furniture, jewelry, toys, shoes and household items will be available at the Holy Angels Women's Guild Rummage sale this weekend.

Mrs. Dianne Leonetti, in charge of publicity, reports that the annual money raising event will be held on Saturday, between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall, 107 San Pedro Road, Colma.

BALBOA HIGH School in San Francisco is celebrating its 50th anniversary in 1978 and one of the first events on the celebration agenda will be a luncheon in the school cafeteria this Saturday.

Alumni members and their friends are invited to lunch in the Balboa cafeteria and honor retired members of the school's faculty.

Mrs. Emily Sumrall, alumni president, notes that retired faculty members who have already indicated they will attend the gathering include Coach Orron Qualls, Coach Carl Mitchell, Rena Case, Gertrude Norgard, Salvatore Billechi, Frances Todd, Emilie Stone, Phyliss Morrison, Pat Cameron, Ruth Anderson, Leta Wheelers, Louis Haas and Harry Duff.

Following the luncheon a special program of songs, cheers and presentations will be presented.

Tickets for the luncheon cost $3.50 and reservations must be made in advance. For more information call Mrs. Sumrall or Mrs. Joan Anderson Christensen or contact Balboa High School's alumni office, 1000 Cayuga Avenue in San Francisco.

FOR THE sixth year, members of Pacifica's Fifty-Plus Club will celebrate the advent of Chinese New Year with a special luncheon and show in San Francisco's Chinatown.

Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhna and Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg are accepting requests for reservations to the party. Plans call for members to gather at 12:45 p.m. in the Golden Phoenix Restaurant for luncheon and then move to a neighboring building to see the bilingual play, "A Golden Future for Peony," an "action-packed extravaganza" which features costumes from Hong Kong and dancing by the Pristine Badhi Dancers.

The tickets, which cost $8 per person, cover the cost of lunch, show, tax and gratuities.

ALL IS in readiness for the fashion and luncheon being presented by the Westlake Catholic Women Feb. 11 in the Grand ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel.

Mrs. Robert Drucker and Mrs. Michael Nevin are the chairwomen of the benefit and Mrs. Richard Galliani and Mrs. George San Pietro, have done the reservations. Other committee chairpersons include Mrs. Robert Reich, Mrs. Charles Vanoncini, Mrs. John Hughes, Mrs. John Lauderdale, Mrs. John Laughran, Mrs. Edward LeBlanc, Mrs. James Rainey, Mrs. Sal Machi, Mrs. Joseph Vollert, Mrs. William Meyers, Mrs. Bryon Davenport and Mrs. Robert Markey.

A CLASS in cake decorating and candy making will continue on Monday at the St. Andrew's Center, Sullivan at Southgate in Daly City.

Mrs. Joyce Malsbury, who trained at San Francisco City College, is teaching the classes each Monday at 8 p.m.

The Election

4 Candidates List Expenses

Four Daly City City Council candidates have filed campaign disclosure statements that show they have raised more than $200 in donations, according to City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf.

None of Brisbane's seven City Council candidates nor Colma's six council and city treasurer's candidates have raised or spent more than $200, however.

Candidates in all three cities were required to file the first of three campaign disclosure statements Thursday. Subsequent financial disclosure statements will be required Feb. 23 and May 11. The municipal elections will be March 7.

Daly City's biggest spender so far is incumbent Councilman Victor G. Kyriakis, who has raised $5,525 in campaign donations and has reported expenditures of $4,723.

The largest contributions to Kyriakis' re-election campaign so far include $2,500 from Daly City's Suburban Realty Co., $200 from the Westlake Development Co. of Daly City, $500 from Koula Pangos of Redwood City and $200 from Arthur Haskins of South San Francisco.

Others who contributed more than $50 to Kyriakis' campaign included Daly City residents Richard Dwyer, Ernest and Mildred Pezzola, Conrad and Artemis Pavellas, Harry Carusis and Mary Chalios.

Challenger James Tucker filed a campaign statement reporting income of $1,800. He listed expenditures of $1,096.

Tucker's major income was reported from a kick-off luncheon which raised $700. Other major contributors were Edward J. Buckley of San Francisco, who gave $450 and Conrad Pavellas and Ernie Pezzola of Daly City, who each contributed $100.

Pavellas and Pezzola also were listed as the major contributors to the campaign of incumbent Councilman William J. Schumacher. Each donated $100, according to the councilman's report.

Schumacher listed $225 in donations and $15 in expenditures of $15.

Challenger Ronald Bates reported $470 in donations, with no contributions of more than $50 listed. He listed $350 in expenditures.

Challengers Jane Powell, O. Edward Salonga and Catherine McGrath filed short form statements, reporting no income and expenditures exceeding $200.

James Tucker, a candidate for City Council in Daly City, has announced appointment of a sub-committee that will work in his campaign. The new group will be called the Student Activities Committee and will be comprised of high school and college students from various schools who want to become active in local government politics.

Tucker stated that this sub-committee was formed as the result of large numbers of students who want to become more involved in the future of their city. Past campaigns have utilized the services of students but none has recognized the need to create a separate and distinct sub-committee, Tucker said. The chairman of the committee has not as yet been selected.

Tickets are on sale for the "Bill Schumacher for City Council Campaign Party", according to Shirley Spencer and Matt Murray, organizers of the event.

The party is scheduled for Feb. 18 at 8 p.m. at Temple Beth Israel Judea, 625 Brotherhood Way, San Francisco. Proceeds from ticket sales will benefit the re-election campaign of Schumacher to the Daly City Council March 7.

Donations for tickets are $7.50 per person. The program includes hors d'oeuvres, no-host cocktails and live music.

Anyone wishing to buy or sell tickets may contact Shirley Spencer or Matt Murray at 755-9720, or write to Committee to Re-elect Bill Schumacher, 375 S. Mayfair Ave., Suite 221, Daly City 94015.

Mission Street Bondsman Eyed

Commercial redevelopment of Daly City's Mission Street and Junipero Serra Boulevard got a boost when a city committee began interviewing bonding consultants.

Councilman William J. Schumacher, the redevelopment agency's project area committee chairman, Charles K. Turner, and Finance Director C. Robert Green met with representatives of three municipal bonding consultants Wednesday.

The committee is expected to select soon either the firm of Blyth, Eastman, Dillon and Co., or Hornblower, Weeks, Noyes and Trask, Inc., or Stone and Youngberg. All three have San Francisco offices.

"I was pleased that three firms of such high eminence would be pleased to come to interview with Daly City," Turner said.

Hiring a bonding consultant is a major step that will be necessary for the city to finance redevelopment.

Don Ciucci, redevelopment staff planner, said the bonding consultant the city chooses will review the redevelopment plans and develop a financing package that could include lease revenue arrangements, tax allocation plans or short-term bank notes. The bond consultant then would be charged with marketing bonds.

City Manager to Run Public Works Department

Daly City's City Manager David Rowe will serve as head of the city's Consolidated Public Works-Community Development Department until June.

Rowe said he will not act to replace City Engineer David Macabee, who left Jan. 27 to accept a similar post in Oceanside, until the council decides whether to proceed with consolidation of the public works and community development functions.

The two departments are consolidated in name only, at present.

Rowe said the city manager's position will be "policy and priority administration for the streets, water, electrical and engineering divisions."

Clarence Mobley, assistant city engineer, will serve as acting city engineer during the interim period, Rowe added. Assistant to the City Manager Ronald Mitchell will be charged with budget preparation for the divisions.

The city manager said John Walker, city planner who left in December, will not be replaced until June, either. Macabee's salary was $31,020 yearly and Walker's was $24,504.

D.C. Coast Guardsman Wins Medal

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Boatswain's Mate Keith A. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Roberts, 569 Winchester St., Daly City, was awarded the Coast Guard Commendation Medal.

He was cited for meritorious achievement on Nov. 21, 1977 while serving at the Coast Guard Station, Ashtabula, Ohio. On that date, he was engaged in a search and rescue operation in the Ashtabula River.

His command was notified that a man had thrown an infant into the river, approximately 500 yards from the station. An extract from his citation notes: 'With Seaman Roberts serving as a boat seaman, the station's life boat was dispatched. Upon arrival on scene, the infant was observed floating face-down in the river. Without hesitation, Roberts jumped into the 39-degree water, grabbed the child and handed her to a fellow Coast Guardsman on the dock. The infant was subsequently transported to the hospital emergency room while two Coast Guardsmen administered cariopulmonary resuscitation.

Nancy Stancill

Jan Autsen of Daly City is a good example. Before a recent assignment to the City Clerk's office, she served as switchboard receptionist at Daly City City Hall.

SHE HAS such a cheerful, musical voice that it is a pleasure to talk to her on the phone.

I wish I were more like her. The truth is that I really don't like talking on the phone.

This is unfortunate, since as a reporter I spend much of my time gathering news over the phone.

If you have ever seen the inside of a busy newspaper office you could sympathize with the pitfalls involved in an extended phone conversation.

IN AN AVERAGE newsroom, the telephone talker must compete with clacking typewriters, ringing telephones, the sounds of nearby composing room machines and printing presses and usually a couple of other conversations among the staff.

It is a lively atmosphere, to say the least. If youre writing you can block out the other noises, but if you're talking on the phone, it's more difficult.

If you're typing what the person is saying, that's yet another noise that gets in the way. It's distracting, but you learn to cope.

SOME OF THE anxiety of trying to hear every word must show up in my conversation, for I apparently lapse into my thickest Southern accents.

I can talk to people in person several times without them ever noticing a Tennessee-Virginia twang. But if I later speak with them over the phone, they immediately ask me where I'm from.

I've been in ludicrous situations where I have to spell every third word I've said, because my accent gets in the way. (I've often wondered why Californians don't have accents. Perhaps the brisk Bay area weather cleans out their vocal chords or something.)

BUT THESE minor difficulties only mask the real reason why I don't care to linger on the phone.

I think it is a shorthand form of communication. I rarely express any genuine feelings over the phone and I don't think many other people do either.

My father, who will sit and talk to me for hours when I'm with him, ends our telephone conversations after about five minutes. The cost of calling coast-to-coat may have something to do with it, but I believe he's basically uncomfortable in long telephone conversations. My husband is the same way.

AS A REPORTER, I would prefer seeing a person's reactions to questions, rather than just hearing them.

If a person is evasive and declines to look you in the eye when he or she makes a statement, it often tells you more than words ever do.

It is satisfying to have a face-to-face conversation with someone. It's often frustrating to talk with the same person on the phone.

WITH THE amount of business most people have to conduct daily, the telephone is a valuable tool. But I hope it won't supplant personal encounters entirely.

Enough of these musings. I think I hear my phone ringing.

Mayors Want Cities to Have a Voice in Plan

By VERN KROGH

The mayors of San Mateo County voted Friday night to hold a series of strategy meetings to make sure local cities have input into a controversial Bay Area "Environmental Management Plan" before "it is shoved down our throats" by the federal government.

City Managers Leland Horner of Millbrae and Donald G. Weidner of Pacifica appeared before a meeting of the Council of Mayors of San Mateo County in Millbrae to present a series of amendments to the plan, known as the "208 Program," which will go before the Association of Bay Area Governments before it goes to the federal government for final funding.

Horner reported that city managers and technical staffs have been reviewing a 550-page draft of the plan and have found it "very frightening."

The plan, according to Horner, is divided into four "sub-plans:"

Water quality, water supply, air quality and solid waste management.

He urged the cities to present "a consolidated approach" instead of a "fragmented approach" if the plan is not to be "shoved down our throats."

"There are many open-ended programs that can affect the cost of this plan and they should be clarified unless you want to sign a blank check," Horner warned.

"I do not know of any single person in the Bay Area who is familiar with the total plan," Horner told the mayors, meeting in the Ramada Inn.

He said some counties, such as Contra Costa and Solano, have already taken a stand on the plan and urged San Mateo County cities to get together on recommendations.

"If we are going to have any impact on ABAG to modify this plan we must be united," he asserted.

Horner listed some "key dates" which local officials must keep in mind if they are going to have any say about the plan, which is expected to be a pilot plan on environmental management for the entire nation.

These include Feb. 8, when the Environmental Management Task Force will review it and ABAG will hold a first public hearing on it in Berkeley, and March 3, when final recommendations for change must be submitted to ABAG for a final hearing in April.

While any one city can submit its own recommendations, Horner said a collective approach is needed for a greater impact for San Mateo County.

Councilwoman Anja Miller of Brisbane, noting that the Regional Planning Committee reviewed various aspects of the plan Thursday night, said, "We must go back to the things that will affect every man, woman and child in our communities."

Mayor Marguerite Leipzig of Redwood City, chairwoman of the Mayors Council, said, "Too many councils have let this ride because it is too complex."

Councilwoman Jane Baker of San Mateo, a representative to ABAG, said that if cities settle on their recommendations for amendments to the plan by April 8, there is a good chance the Environmental Task Force will adopt the recommendations.

Weidner said changes suggested by city managers in a land use management plan, part of the total plan, are aimed at making the Bay Area plan subordinate to local city and county land use plans.

He warned that while the proposed regional land use plan would lead to only a 3 to 5 percent improvement in air quality, it could "lead to massive intrustion in local governments."

Woodside Town Manager Robert Myers said there are many elements of the proposed plan his city cannot live with.

Weidner said if local governments take no position on the plan that the federal governement "will proclaim you a non-attainment area and you will have your hands slapped and funds will be withdrawn."

Mayor Paul F. Goercke of Brisbane said his council had reviewed the amendments proposed by the city managers and agreed with 43 but disagreed with 36.

This is so encompassing and so restrictive that if the Council of Mayors and our cities don't get busy this will be "shoved down our throats," Councilman Stanley M. Farber of asserted. "Don't cop out now. This has been on the books six months. The pros have made the recommendations. Unless you have some hairy grapes about this, do something."

Mrs. Leipzig said it is "a foregone conclusion we will have this plan, and my greatest fear is that we will have another layer of government over us. I feel we should respond before its too late."

Councilman R.D. Martin of Burlingame, terming the recommendations of the managers "pretty innocuous," said the plan will cost $635 million, "and that's a hell of a lot of money. I don't see how the people of this region can afford this.

Tips in Burglary Arrests

South San Francisco police today credited their "tip" line with assisting in the arrest of five persons over the weekend in two separate burglary incidents.

The city's "tip" line allows citizens to anonymously telephone in suspicious circumstances.

At about 7 p.m. Saturday, a call was received indicating a suspected burglary in progress at 712 Commercial Ave. When officers arrived, they noticed a vehicle with its lights out leaving the home.

Police stopped the vehicle and arrested the driver and a passenger. Charged with two counts of burglary and one count of being under the influence of heroin were Glenn N. Ellestead, 24, of 750 Madrid St., and Joseph P. Pucci, 24, of 1652 Delores St., both of San Francisco.

The two are suspected of breaking into the home twice Saturday.

Both were booked in the North County jail at Daly City.

In the second "tip" line incident, police received a call at 11:30 a.m. Sunday that a burglary reportedly was in progress at Sunshine Garden School.

Three officers responded and found three juveniles inside a classroom.

The youths were cited, taken to Hillcrest Juvenile Home and released to their parents' custody.

A HELPING HAND

The American Red Cross Golden Gate Chapter has opened a new "Health Shop" office at 803½ Linden Ave., South San Francisco, to assist North County residents with health care needs and problems. In top photo, health shop coordinator Kathy Hadfield, left, does a blood pressure test for Gail Montgomery. At right, she's giving health information literature to Danny Baggs. The free drop-in health education center is the first of its kind and is open from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesdays and the first Saturday of each month from noon to 3 p.m. The emphasis is on outreach to low-income and minority groups, with the staff made up of volunteer nurses and health educators.

Airman Gains An AF Stripe

The U.S. Air Force has promoted Randy C. Bohannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Bohannon of Las Cruces, N.M., to the rank of senior airman. Bohannon is serving at Tempelhof Central Airport, Germany, as an electronic intelligence operations specialist.

His wife, Airman First Class Kathleen Y. Bohannon, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Hartz, 377 Coral Ridge Drive, Pacifica.

Miss Pacifica Pageant Ends

After a stormy debate, the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce board of directors voted unanimously Thursday to cancel the Miss Pacifica pageant it has sponsored for many years.

"It's a shame. I've been sick about it all day," said Hazel Billmire, who sits on the board and acts as liaison to th Pageant Committee.

Mrs. Billmire said the chamber had no other alternative because of the lack of interest from Miss Pacifica applicants and because four key workers on the Pageant Committee have left during the past year.

Although the chamber extended its deadline for applications this year, only four young women applied. Ten entered the competition last year.

Mrs Billmire said the four persons who used to work "practically full-time" on the pageant are Aubrey Lumley, who was executive director of the event; John Craig, who was producer; Mary Jones, who worked on wardrobes and was a part-time chaperone, and Audrey Feeney, who acted as chaperone. All four were unable to help this year.

Other problems resulted because the pageant was scheduled earlier this year.

"We probably didn't start early enough recruiting girls. You have to have somebody doing this from the very time your last pageant is over," Mrs. Billmire commented.

She said some young women are afraid to compete until they are reassured that the talent portion of the contest doesn't mean that the contestant has to sing or dance.

"They can be photographers or design their own clothes — a variety of talents are acceptable," she explained.

One suggestion offered to th board was to conduct a "mini-pageant" without all the trimmings of the regular event.

"The chamber did not care to go with anything but a full-blown pageant," Mrs Billmire said. To conduct one, the directors decided at least eight and preferably 10 contestants must be found.

"It's what we've always given and I guess we don't want to settle for anything less," she added.

The board decided to assign a study group to determine whether enough interest can be found to resume the Miss Pacifica pageant next year.

"What we need is to sit back and take a good look at ourselves. It takes a while to regroup," Mrs. Billmire said.

The board will appoint members of the study group next week at a special meeting.

Completed Hillside Boulevard Objective

Continuing problems with Colma's Hillside Boulevard were pointed out this week in a meeting of about seven property owners with the city attorney and the city engineer.

The property owners urged City Engineer Edwin Smith to see that the major aggravations are corrected before Colma takes back the stretch of road it turned over to San Mateo County several years ago.

The county is nearing completion of a nearly $1 million improvement project. Colma officials have insisted that the road expansion to four lanes is not ready to be given back to the city for maintenance.

Representatives of Pets Rest Cemetery, Serbian Cemetery, a sand pit and dump business and several residents complained that the lack of right-of-way makes it difficult to negotiate a turn.

JESD Wants Applicants

The deadline for applying for a seat on the Jefferson Elementary School District Personnel Commission has been extended indefinitely to allow more people to apply.

Although the seat first opened up in early November, the commission has only had two applications for the position so far, according to Jack Hayes, the district's director of classified personnel.

"We're hoping to get at least five applications before we close it off," said Hayes.

A three-member public body, the Personnel Commission is responsible for administering the merit system used in selecting, retaining and promoting non-teaching employees in the district.

The Moonraker's Split Level Dining

Long Island Duckling Bigarade is one of the Chef's Specialties to try at THE MOONRAKER, a sophisticated Rockaway Beach restaurant offering a breathtaking view of the Pacific Ocean from every table in the split-level dining room and lounge. Because it was named for the topmost sail of a clipper ship, sails, plus other nautical accents, carry out the theme of this splendid restaurant. Open for dinner Tuesdays thru Sundays....In addition to their regular Combination Plates, LA PINATA Mexican restaurant in downtown Burlingame offers the Combination Grande for large appetites. A big favorite (No. 10 on the menu) is enchilada, taco and Chile Relleno served with refried beans, Mexican rice, salad and corn tortillas.....ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB in San Francisco is the place to go if you want to rub elbows with show biz celebrities. Rosebud's is right across the street from the Curran and Geary theaters, so there is always someone famous dining here. There is continuous food service daily from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 at night (Sunday brunch from 10 a.m.), so you can dine whenever you feel hungry.....The fastest-moving item at ROMANO'S Italian and Seafood restaurant, Rockaway Beach, is Fisherman-style Crab Cioppino, served with garlic bread. Harness Racing Full Time Night Schedule

The BAY MEADOWS harness meeting has gone on a full night time schedule, with the trotters and pacers to perform under the lights through the close of the winter season on Feb. 18. Racing will continue on a Tuesday-through-Saturday basis, with post time for the first race set for 7:45 p.m. This gives racing fans an opportunity to combine an evening of their favorite sport with dining out in the popular turf club. The picturesque harness horses are becoming more and more popular with each passing year and the current season has been an outstanding success, despite the recent heavy rains. With the entire turf club glass enclosed, as well as most of the grandstand, and the plant heated throughout, patrons are just as comfortable as if in their own living rooms, although the horses and drivers are not quite as fortunate during inclement weather. This Friday night, the San Mateo Elks will have their annual "night at the races" and they always have the biggest representation of any of the groups or organizations participating in the special programs presented by the track. There will be some 600 in attendance for the Elks' festivities and it is always a lively affair. There are two weeks of harness racing remaining after this one and groups of 25 or more can obtain low cost package deals, including admission, dinner, programs, etc., by calling the Special Events Department at 345-1661.

450 Scandinavian Students to Visit

A total of 450 Scandinavian high school students are ready to visit the United States, including San Mateo County, as soon as American host families open their doors to them.

Interested families are asked to contact Pat Humiston of 664 Vanessa Drive, San Mateo. She is the local representative for the sponsoring American-Scandinavian Student Exchange. The main offices are located at 7728 Lookout Drive, LaJolla, Calif. 92037.

Students have qualified from Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland for the school year 1978-79.

They are 16 and 17 years of age, will be arriving in the U.S. in late August, and will attend local high schools, returning home in late June 1979. All of the students speak English fluently and have been carefully screened by officials of the sponsoring agency. They have necessary funds and medical insurance.

American families who wish to host students of ages 16 to 18 for five weeks from June 21 to late July also are sought. There will be 200 students seeking host families in this portion of the program.

The American Scandinavian Student Exchange is seeking American students, ages 16 to 18, who would like to spend a high school year with a Scandinavian family, or spend a five-week vacation with a family in one of the participating contries.

The overall program is under the auspices of the Swedish Board of Education. Since 1938, more than 150,000 students have participated in the various programs, which have also involved Germany, France and England.

The purpose is to promote better relationships and international understanding, and the early school years are the most impressionable for young people, it is pointed out by sponsors.

SSF Man Jailed in Lock-Shooting Case

A South San Francisco man was arrested Saturday night on charges of discharging a firearm into an inhabited dwelling, police said today.

Arrested and booked in North County Jail in Daly City was Richard Patricio, 38, 332 Gambler St., San Francisco.

According to police, Patricio allegedly used a .35-caliber revolver to shoot the lock and forcibly enter the home of his ex-wife, Fe Patricio, 2363 Greendale Drive, South San Francisco.

When officers arrived, Patricio was unarmed, although police said he did physically resist officers. A loaded .38 revolver was later found in the home.

Gas Heater Said Possible Starting Point of Fire

A fire which apparently originated in the second-story bedroom of a Daly City home Saturday night caused an estimated $25,000 in damage, Daly City firemen said today.

The blaze, in the home of John Serrano, 67 Pacifica Ave., began just before 8 p.m. When firemen arrived, flames were coming from a bedroom window on the east side of the home. Firemen were able to extinguish the blaze within minutes.

Serrano was not at home at the time of the fire, and there were no injuries.

Firemen said they believe a bed placed close to a gas heater might have caused the fire.

The house suffered smoke and heat damage throughout.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

When we are shopping in the vegetable section of the market, with its varieties vegetables and fruits in all colors and shapes, one vegetable tha catches the eye is the eggplant. Eggplant is a vegetable I buy rather frequently and therefore am always happy to find a new recipe for using it.

SCALLOPED EGGPLANT

1 eggplant, peeled and sliced ¼" thick
2 eggs, well beaten
½ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ cups bread crumbs
3 Tablespoons salad oil
15 oz. can tomato sauce
1¼ cups grated cheddar cheese

Dip the raw eggplant in the two beaten eggs to which the half-teaspoon each oregano and Worcestershire sauce have been added. Coat both sides of eggplant in the 1½ cups bread crumbs. Heat the three tablespoons oil in large skillet. Brown eggplant on both sides. Drain on paper towels.

Place a layer of eggplant in the bottom of a two-quart casserole. Top with some tomato sauce and grated cheese. Repeat layers until all eggplant is used. Cover and bake in 350-degree oven about one hour or until eggplant is tender. Serves 4 to 6.

These cornmeal muffins would go very nicely with this casserole.

CORNMEAL YOGURT MUFFINS

1 cup flour
¾ cup yellow cornmeal
1/3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
1/3 cup shortening
1 egg
1 cup plain yogurt
¼ cup melted butter

Sift the one cup flour, three-fourths cup yellow cornmeal, one-third cup sugar, one fourth-teaspoon salt and half-teaspoon baking soda into mixing bowl. Cut in the third-cup shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. In small bowl, beat one egg slightly. Stir in the one cup plain yogurt and fourth-cup melted butter. With fork, add to dry mixture, stirring just until flour is moistened (batter will be lumpy). Spoon batter into greased 2½-inch muffin cups or mini-muffin pans. Bake in 375-degree oven 18 to 20 minutes, or until browned (decrease baking time about 3 to 5 minutes for mini-muffins).

Makes one dozen large or two dozen mini-muffins.

ADVERTISER BENEFITS

Amphlett Printing Company's new TMC plan provides unduplicated high household penetration (82% initially, to be increased as plan expands) that combines the area's most widely read and most frequently used for shopping daily newspaper with a well read, established and accepted weekly newspaper that offers unduplicated household coverage.

This TMC plan offers more than just distribution, it offers proven readership. The Times and The Post have developed and maintained readership by producing the best combination of an excellent editorial product and more local advertising (the second highest read feature of newspapers) than any other newspaper or newspaper combination available in San Mateo County.

NOTE: The Post's unduplicating computerized distribution system began November 16, and will be expanded until all routes in the Total Market Coverage Area have been revised. Circlation of The Post, when the TMC plan is completed, is projected to be between 25,000 and 30,000, which will provide between 80%-90% TMC household penetration.

Plans are now being made to expand the TMC area into Burlingame. The non-duplicating computerized distribution system will be used for delivery of the Recorder-Progress to non-subscribers of The Times.

Basketball at its Best

'Twas a Night to Remember

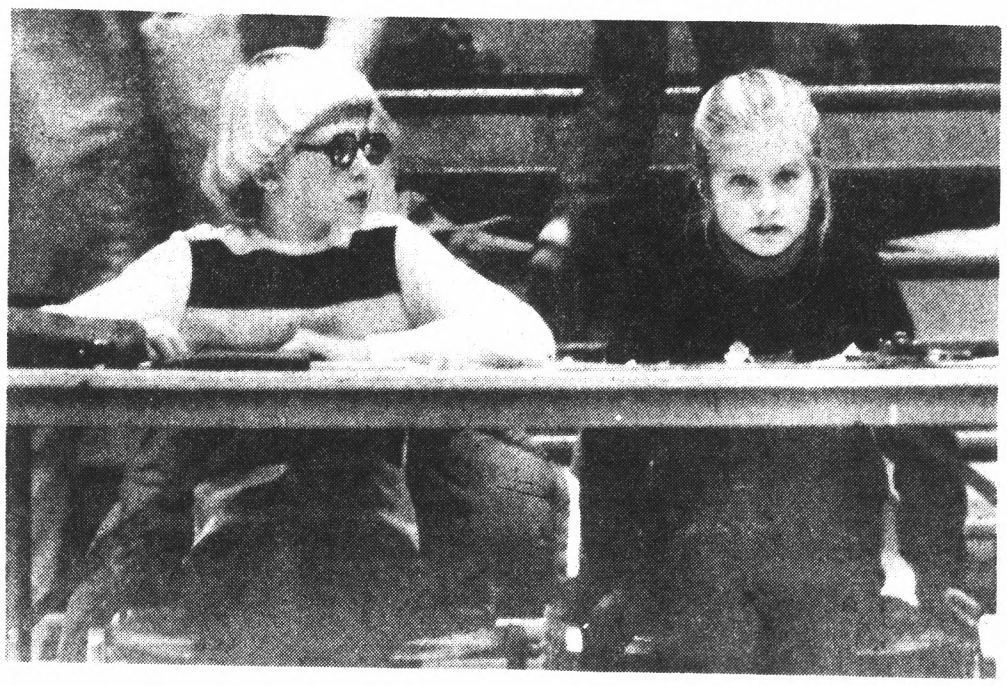
By CHRISTOPHER STAVE

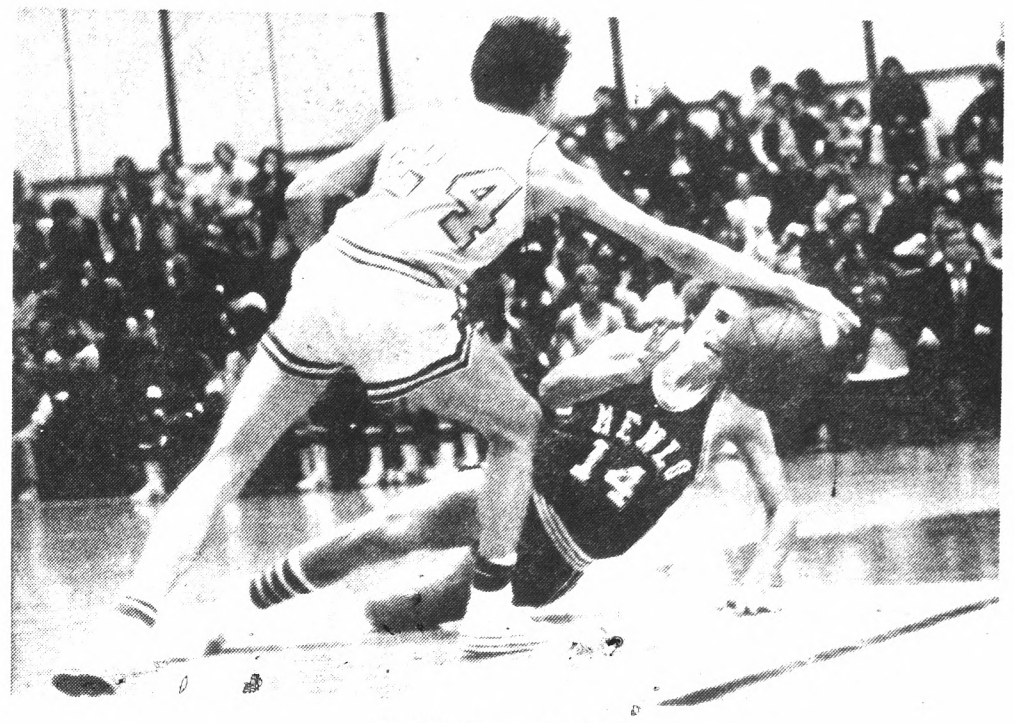
Skyline College's basketball team made the air crackle after building up to the big game for more than a month, and the Trojans proved that their No. 1 state ranking was no fluke.

The defending state Division II champions outsped, outshot and outrebounded archrival visitor Menlo (ranked No. 2 in the state) Saturday night for an 87-58 Coast Conference win and the biggest margin of victory for either team in the history of their series.

Each team had been unbeaten in conference play and 18-2 overall going into the game, after playing against roughly comparable opponents. Skyline was the quicker — and the higher-scoring team — but the game figured to be even and bitterly contested.

It wasn't even. Menlo led for 26 seconds, early in the first half, and never led again.





IT WAS ONLY A GAME

But what a game it was. Fans and official statisticians (above) were on the edge of their seats for much of the first half as Skyline College decided for the time being which team is the best in the state's division II rankings with an 87-58 victory over Menlo College Saturday night at Skyline. The statisticians' intensity can be explained in the fact their names are Molly (left) and Tora Newcomer — daughters of Skyline basketball coach Lyle Newcomer. RIGHT: Skyline ace Ted Scott (24) pulls up on his dribble and causes Menlo's Pete Doherty (former Serra High a prep) to slip. Scott, who prepped at Westmoor, led all scorers with 27 points and Skyline ran its record to 19-2. The two arch-rivals will meet again near the end of the season — this time at the crackerbox Menlo gym.

Skyline hadn't played well in several previous wins, and coach Lyle Newcomer was wondering if his team would be ready to face as intense an opponent as Menlo.

"I think Menlo was the reason we didn't play too well before," said Skyline guard Ted Scott, who led all scorers with 27 points.

"Menlo means so much to us. It's such a big game," he continued, "that with two weeks to go before the game you already know they're there, they're coming. I don't think I've ever played in a bigger game (Scott played in the state championship game last year)."

All week in practice Skyline's second string had simulated Menlo's kamikaze man-to-man defense, and doing so successfully enough to draw the first five's respect. "Actually, our own second five played about as tough a man-to-man as I've seen," said Scott. "You have to give a lot of credit to coach Newcomer. We were so well prepared it was unbelievable.

"I don't really think we can play any better than we did tonight. We had to be. That Townsend (Menlo guard Kurt), for instance, is a helluva player."

About an hour before the game Skyline's players started guessing how many people would show up to watch. JC basketball is not always a big draw, and Skyline generally pulls out the bleachers on just one side of the gym.

"But people started coming in 45 minutes before the game," said Scott, "and they just kept coming." The bleachers on the other side had to be pulled out too, and those filled up. The game drew 1,400 people, just about capacity, and the largest crowd ever to see a Skyline athletic event.

So the Trojans had a lot going for them — some good physical attributes (speed, superior outside shooting), emotion and the home court.

The result was obvious almost from the beginning. Skyline harried Menlo with a smothering press, and the Oaks turned over the ball 13 times in the first half, often getting burned.

Menlo is too good a defensive team to let Skyline run its well-oiled fast break all the time, but the Trojans managed to set up and score anyway. Scott and forward Jerry McNeil were hot from outside.

Forward Reggie Love (who is still 17 — he skipped a grade in elementary school) played his best game as a Trojan, helping Skyline establish dominance on the boards. Love and muscular 6-6 center Brad Levesque, a nonpareil rebounding team that has started countless fast breaks, beat Menlo's physical front line at its own game.

Menlo had only two offensive rebounds the whole first half, thanks to Skyline's efficient zone and position. At the other end, Love alone scored four baskets in the first half on follow shots. Skyline wound up outrebounding the Oaks 37-23.

Menlo likes the inside game on offense, but couldn't penetrate Skyline's zone effectively, and didn't have the same outside firepower the Oaks boasted. Only Townsend was able to hit from the perimeter.

Skyline sizzled for 20 minutes and took a 46-28 lead to the locker room at halftime.

Newcomer had previously complained that his team didn't have a killer instinct, couldn't keep a big lead — but he didn't reiterate that complaint Saturday night.

Though Menlo upped the intensity of its defense, forcing Skyline further out, and though Skyline was now making the turnovers, and though Levesque (foul trouble) and playmaking guard Jason Malinowski (mild injury) were forced to the bench on and off during the second half, Skyline maintained an 18- to 20-point lead down the stretch. The score was padded a little at the end.

Louis Reynaud and James Reed did an exemplary job off the bench, and Skyline stayed hot enough to up its shooting percentage (the Trojans shot 59 percent for the game).

Malinowski, the state Division II leader in assists, had 15 against Menlo in front of an appreciative crowd. "You know where everyone is going to be on the fast break," he said. "That's the whole point of a system like coach Newcomer's. But when the pass is open, we like to make it look good." Showmanship didn't hurt.

"We executed very well," said Newcomer, "and we shot very well. I don't think we've ever played a better game as a team against Menlo. You play regular games, and you practice, in order to play in the big games. You don't play in that many big games in your life. I told them they wouldn't want to walk out afterward and be able to say to themselves, there was something more they could have done.

"But they played well. They had to. Individually, most of them have played before the way they played tonight, but not as a team, and I don't think Reggie Love has ever played a better game."

Of course, the two teams will meet again at the end of the conference season, in Menlo's tiny torture chamber of a gym, and the results could well be very different. But right now the Trojans don't care. They just want to keep the momentum going when they host Hartnell tonight at 7:30.

"The Hartnell game always seems to come right after the Menlo game," said Scott. "Maybe that's why we've never beaten Hartnell here. There's always some kind of letdown. But that's a string we'd really like to break."

McNeil, who had a superb night both inside and out, wound up with 19 points and six rebounds. Love had 13 points and nine rebounds. Eight Trojans scored. Townsend topped Menlo with 14 (six in the second half). Butch Treadwell had 12 and Bill Bredy 10.

All-Time Top Golfer?

Le Pacini

Name history's greatest golfers. The names roll off the lips automatically — Jones, Nelson, Snead, Hogan, Palmer, Nicklaus — the list could go on. But unless you ask a real old-time buff, it's almost a sure bet you'll never hear "Travis."

That would be Walter J. Travis, who in some respects may be the most remarkable golfer who ever lived.

OF COURSE, Travis was golfing before the turn of the century, which may account for some of his present anonymity. But in his day he was as dominant in golf as any of the above names and in some ways more unbelievable.

Travis didn't pick up a golf stick until 1896, when he was nearly 35 years old. But one month later he entered his first tournament and won it! That began a career which spanned 20 years of competitive golf, and which saw him win the last tournament he ever entered, at age 54.

Two years after he first swung the golf stick he reached the semifinal round of the Amateur Championship. Within four years of his debut he was United States amateur champ and for four of the five years between 1900-1904 he was champion of either America or Great Britain. When he was 44 he won the British amateur title, the last American to win it for a period of 22 years, despite the best efforts of such great American golfers as Jerry Travers, Francis Quimet, Bobby Jones, and others.

IT WAS SAID of Travis that he could beat any golfer who ever lived on a golf course only 10 yards wide and with a strong wind blowing.

Some of his feats with the ancient wooden shafted stick were remarkable. He once hit the flagstick three times in one round. On another tough course he once went four rounds, hitting pars on all but two of the holes. There was the occasion that he had six consecutive eagles on the same hole of another rugged course, a hole which was considered one of the course's most difficult.

When he was 60 he shot consecutive 66 and 68's in one of the Florida championships and at 64 he came within two strokes of breaking the record for the then-tough Garden City course.

ALL THIS, and Travis, late-starting and slight of build, never took a golf lesson in his life!

One of his practice techniques was to install holes only half the normal size on the practice greens of his home course.

He had perhaps the most unique grip in golfing history. He didn't interlock or overlap. In fact, he didn't even have a baseball grip, unless you called the way Ty Cobb held a baseball bat a normal baseball grip. That's right. Travis gripped the club with his right hand well under his top left hand — a separated grip, just like Cobb's.

CONTEMPORARY WRITERS felt that Travis' secret, besides his obvious techniques and consistency, was his total concentration on every shot of every match and his knowledge of all courses. (He was also a ranking golf architect.) And, of course, his keen competitiveness.

That, feels Johnny Swanson, the local bowling entrepreneur, could be a paragraph which best describes the greatest golfer of this time, Jack Nicklaus.

Actually, as far as Swanson is concerned Nicklaus is without doubt easily the greatest golfer of all times, and certainly the best "money" player. Swanson should know something about it, because he's played Nicklaus head-and-head often, and in fact tied Jack (with no handicap) the first time they ever met, when Jack was U.S. amateur champ. Johnny himself has been described, in years psst, as the best "money" amateur in the state.

"NICKLAUS IS GREAT," says Swanson, "because he has good control of himself, within himself. He can call up the adrenalin when he needs it; can reach back at crucial times.

"He also has a retentive memory: a computer mind. He can recall every inch of every golf course he's ever walked. When he plays a shot, he not only knows exactly how many feet he is from the pin, he's also instantly computing wind velocity, the heaviness of the air, literally reconstructing all of the elements in his mind before he commits himself to that swing.

"There are golfers on the tour who can strike the ball better than Nicklaus. Tom Weiskopf, for example, is in my opinion a better mechanical golfer than Jack. You give them both a target area, say 250 yards away, and give them each 50 balls and Weiskopf will beat Nicklaus with all clubs, put the ball exactly where he wants it every time. But now, you give them the same target area and just one ball apiece, and Nicklaus will beat him."

LOCAL NOTES: Art Piccolotti, currently of Skyline College and a class of '75 Oceana grad, recently was signed by the Minnesota Twins.

Mike Haas, also from Oceana and a fullback on the Skyline soccer team, recently was named to the All-American soccer team.

NPL Basketball

SSF-El Camino for Playoff?

By JOHN MURPHY

There is only one question left to be answered in North Peninsula League basketball (now that Serramonte High has made a mockery out of the round robin title chase). That question is: Who will make the playoffs?

Serramonte (10-0), Westmoor (7-3) and Jefferson (6-4) are already shoo-ins for the post-season competition. That leaves one spot up for grabs. It's a good bet that South San Francisco (5-5) and El Camino (5-5) will fight it out for the remaining slot.

Those cross-town antagonists will do battle Wednesday night at 7 at El Camino in a contest that could go a long way in clearing up the playoff picture.

South City is currently the hottest thing going in the NPL (besides Serramonte, of course). The Warriors have won four out of their last five. Monday night they defeated host Oceana 55-49. But El Camino kept the heat on by downing Half Moon Bay 55-50 in another coastline struggle.

Jefferson-Serramonte

Jefferson led the Regents 42-41 midway through the third quarter until a flurry of eight straight points by junior forward Ricky Nixon lifted Serramonte to a 49-42 lead.

Serramonte maintained that margin until the fourth quarter when senior forward Darryl Jackson got Jeff's fast break moving.

The Indians then ran a four-corner stall superbly and Serramonte was forced to foul with 18 seconds remaining. However, Jeff missed its one-and-one opportunity, setting up Nelson's game-winning field goal.

Mixon led all scorers with 25 points and guard Conrad Simon added 16 for the Regents. Jackson paced Jeff with 20 points while sophomore forward Ernie Dupree added 19 and center Larry Woods chipped in 16 for the Tribe.

South City-Oceana

South City led 29-22 at the half, but guard Mark Page's torrid outside shooting brought Oceana to within 42-41 after three periods.

SSF scored the first four points of the final stanza and then, after an Oceana basket, ran the clock down to 3:00 before missing a one-and-one free throw chance.

After an exchange of baskets, center George Niualiku made a pair of free throws at 1:50 to put SSF ahead 50-45. Kendall Mason then hit a short jumper for Oceana, but Leorman Wilson retailiated with a tip-in at 0:53.

A free throw by Ken Washington and a lay-in by Niualiku iced it for SSF.

Niualiku sparked the Warrior attack with 15 points and Wilson contributed 12. Steve Rice topped the Sharks with 16 points and Page added 10 (all in the third quarter).

Westmoor-Terra Nova

Terra Nova played well against the talented Rams and trailed only 50-42 with just over two and a half minutes remaining.

But TN had to come out of its zone in the final minutes, and Westmoor hit some cheapies to win going away.

Center Sheldon Scott led Westmoor with 19 points and forward Keith Harband added 14. Rugged forward Mark Navarro was a terror on the boards and finished with 11 points.

Neil Lundy paced TN with 12 points and Rich Belli had 10.

By STEVE KAUFMAN
Commissioner of Publicity

The closest and most spirited student body elections this reporter has ever seen have drawn to a close. Election day proved that there still are many students that have an interest in Westmoor High School.

Steve Boides won the closest presidential race in Westmoor's history. He was separated from Gary Robinson, the incumbent by only three votes, making it a very close match. The rest of the winners were Vice-president, Angela Rizzo; secretary, Kris Tong; parlimentarian, Dave Arnold; commissioner of clubs, Gerardo Balagot; commissioner of entertainment, Kathy Bolton; treasurer, Seth Skootsky and myself as commissioner of publicity. Good luck to all of these officers and best wishes for a successful term.

ELECTION DAY was a great show of spirit by many students who were not running. While I was busy putting up posters urging students to get out and vote, both the presidential candidates were busy stuffing "Vote for . . ." in student lockers. Signs were going up all over school and the red and green paneled walls turned white from all the dittoed signs. When I went to vote the Little Theater was fairly full of voters. To quote one girl I passed, "Good Lord, there are signs all over the place."

No sooner has the dust settled from these elections when petitions for class officers have been released. Already, the list of candidates signing up is three-quarters full. Anyone is eligible to run for these offices, provided they meet the grade eligibility requirements. The offices available are: vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and Student Congress representative.

WESTMOOR'S DANCE CONTEST was an absolute success. Students jammed the Little Theater, leaving standing room only. The same capacity crowd was experienced both lunch periods. Three couples and one single danced. In the couples division, third place was taken by Al Colindres and Sandy Moralez.

The judging for second and first place was an act of pure kindness and generosity, which is often reflected at Westmoor. There was a tie for first place between Tommy Jacobs and his partner Arlene Scott, and Bill Ang and his partner Denise Beliso. Both couples did an excellent routine and the judges were going to award both couples with first place. However, Tommy and Arlene decided that Bill and Diane did a better job than themselves. They gave first place to the other couple. I personally would like to congratulate Tommy and Arlene for their maturity and admirable qualities they have shown. Congratulations also to Bill and Denise for a fantastic performance.

The winner of the singles division was Djuanique Draper. She was the sole entrant for this class and drew much applause for her routine.

WESTMOOR'S MUSIC DEPT. has been keeping busy trying to raise money for the group's activities. On Jan. 27 the "booster club" — TEMPO — The (E)nvolved Music Parent's Organization, sponsored a bake sale at Tanforan from 3 to 8 p.m. All proceeds go towards the group's trip to Disneyland, which also is being planned by TEMPO. It really makes me proud to see so much parent involvement in the Music Dept. and they are to be commended for all their hard work and effort. Also keep in mind the Music Marathon Feb. 17-18 and a Solo Ensemble at the school Feb. 25.

Westmoor's Journalism Department had a visitor from Skyline College who talked to students about Skyline and the journalism program in particular. Sam N. Goldman came with slides and a projector and gave a very interesting profile of how a college newspaper is run. He also encouraged students to look into a possible start in college at Skyline. I personally enjoyed his presentation.

THIS NEXT ITEM I am personally proud to announce. Westmoor is getting a par-course! It is a series of 18 stations with running, jogging or walking paths between the stations. It is identical to the one currently in operation at Skyline College. Whenever these complete physical fitness centers have been installed in the past they have been met with instant success.

On Feb. 3 at 12:30 p.m. the newly installed course will be officially opened. Complete opening ceremonies are being planned. Several television stations will be there covering this happy event. It isn't sure yet but it is hoped that the opening ceremonies will be conducted by Mayor Al Teglia and School Board Jane Powell, as well as several other important Daly City officials. I would cordially like to extend a formal invitation to you to come and participate in the opening ceremonies and run the course for the first time!

This Par-course is the combined effort of the City of Daly City and the Jefferson Union High School District. It is for the use of the entire community as well as students of the district. Feel free to run the course anytime you want, and stay in shape!

CONGRATULATIONS to Kiki Verveniotis, who was chosen by the San Andreas Chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution at the DAR's 24th annual Awards Tea. Kiki was presented the award for her leadership, patriotism and dependability. Congratulations, Kiki, for setting such a fine example for everyone to follow, and for being such a fine representative for Westmoor.

PLANS are being made for Grad-Nite '78 for seniors or whomever is graduating this year. Students wishing to pay go to Disneyland. Included in the price is round-trip air fare to Los Angeles and admission to everything at Disneyland. Food and souvenirs have to be purchased, but all rides and attractions are pre-paid. Disneyland is specially opened at night and is used only by these lucky seniors. Sign-ups are being taken at the back of the cafeteria.

"FUN WITH DICK AND JANE" was shown by the school's Film Club. It played Jan. 24-27 in the school's Little Theater and a large turnout came to see this hilarious comedy, starring George Segal and Jane Fonda.

SPORTS — Westmoor's varsity basketball team is in a fierce battle with Serramonte for first place. At the time this column was being written, the big game was being played at Westmoor, with Serramonte going home with a 74-73 win.

Westmoor's junior varsity soccer team is off to a great start! The Rams won their first league game by a score of 1-0. Playing Jefferson in the league opener, the Rams showed excellent form. Among the outstanding players in that game were Paul Edwinson and Carlos Posada, who kicked the game's only goal on a penalty kick. Keep it up!

THE GIRLS' varsity basketball team has reason to be proud. At the time of writing, they were placing second and were in very close contention for capturing the crown. Their overall record including pre-season action is 11-2 and their league record is 5-1. They are the smallest team on the Peninsula, yet one of the quickest.

One of the team's greatest assets, Donna Imsand, averages a stunning 22 points per game. If she keeps up this rate she easily will break the school record of 32 per game. Among some of the team's other outstanding players are guards Sue Murray and Verna Castro, center Janet Heise, who gives up only five points per opposition, and Laura Bruno and Maria Marti. Best of luck this season.

How do you make a cheese press?" "Where can I find the blueprints for a low-cost food dryer?"

Everybody's doing it: cooking, drying, canning, gardening, making his own repairs. It is a grassroots revolution against synthetics; against "a boring world," writes Eliot Wigginton is his "Foxfire Book" (Doubleday, $8.95). People still "have fire and spirit."

THERE IS GROWTH for the spirit in a new book from the editors of Organic Gardening and Farming. "Build It Better Yourself" (Rodale Press, $16.95) was written to help people discover the joy and satisfaction of doing things for themselves. It is centered around the idea that there is a double reward in constructing your own tools, outbuildings and the like. The second reward is in the use of these self-made items.

So how do you make a cheese press? Well, it depends on whether you want a wooden cheese press or a tin can press. "Build It Better Yourself" gives you point-by-point instructions for both.

Building a low-cost food dryer is another matter. It is so important the editors have created a whole chapter to food drying. Drying is the natural method of preserving fruit and vegetables wherein nothing is added and only water is removed. Dried food conserves storage space; indeed, five pounds of fresh fruit will yield one pound of dry fruit. To perform the miracle of drying, the first thing you must do is build one of the four dryers found in "Build It Better Yourself."

THIS VALUABLE BOOK contains instructions for constructing hundreds of devices that make gardening, cooking and homesteading fun. For this reason it has been called "a build-it-yourselfer's encyclopedia."

For "do-it-yourselfers" there's a book with the appropriate title of "The Complete Do-it-Yourself Manual," from Reader's Digest, which sells for $16.95.

It is a beautiful book with chapters on such things as Furniture: How to Repair And Restore It; Electricity: Solving Power Problems Safely; Plumbing: How to Keep It In Working Order; Metals: How to Use Them In Home Repair; and Painting and Decorating Walls, Ceilings And Floors.

FOR THE GUY OR GAL who feels creative fervors in his frame, there is a section entitled Fifty Projects You Can Build. So what do you want to make: Kitchen cabinets, a stereo center, bunk beds, a periscope, a barbecue? "The Complete Do-it-Yourself Manual" tells you how to do it and provides the plans you need and pictures to help you.

This is the day of home repairs. The handyman is king. It's the day, writes the author of "Foxfire," for "the weighty testament of ingenuity."

over five feet tall, recently scored 18 points in one quarter in an NPL girls' basketball game.

"And all on 30-footers," says her coach, Jeff Orlich, a former Westmoor football star, Cal graduate and Raider signee.

KAREN, who's been playing schoolyard basketball for years, uses the old two-hand push shot.

Known as "Queen Hoops" around classrooms, Karen is also modest. Of her Big Quarter (and other high scoring games she's had) she blushes and says "I just get lucky once in a while."

Woods is one of Orlich's hopes for the future of Jeff's girls team, which is in its first year of league competition and features a starting quintet of four freshmen and a sophomore.

AS OF THIS WRITING the disposition of the Reds-A's trade of Vida Blue for Dave Revering and a lot of cash is unknown. But if Bowie Kuhn snafus it as not in the best interests of baseball, he's making a fool of Revering, who is a legitimate Big Prospect who just hasn't been able to break into the Cincy lineup because he's been bucking first Tony Perez and now Dan Driessen at first base.

When a Reds minor league outfielder named Joe Henderson became part of the package last year when the Mets traded Tom Seaver to Cincy, there was a lot of bleating over how the Mets had been taken. But Henderson proved to be one of baseball's top rookies and one of the Mets' few real stars. Like Revering, he had been in the minors not because he wasn't a big leaguer, but just because he couldn't break into that great Reds' outfield, certainly not a disgrace.

GOOD FOR JOHN MADDEN. In a recent Sporting News interview he refused to alibi because of That Fumble.

"Yes, we felt we had the fumble recovery," he said, "but this is a 60-minute proposition. It doesn't boil down to one play or one person. We were a little short (so) give Denver credit . . ."

down the stretch, and that was all the opportunity that Camino needed to salt away this see-saw contest.

Dwayne Curry was the key man for the Colts as he pumped in 15 points. Center Ken Rhodes backed Curry with 14 markers.

Guard Barry Short led HMB with 15 points and pivotman Dave Bradley added 14.

RAM STRONG MAN

Westmoor High's Mark Navarro dominated rebounding action Monday as the Rams beat Terra Nova 61-44.

Win On Clutch Shot

By SIMI LEE

With the score knotted at 54-54, the clock showing 0:00 and the gym crowd roaring in equal parts hope and frustration, Westmoor High senior Donna Imsand stood at the free throw line and promptly sank the first part of a one-and-one to give the Rams a 55-54 upset victory over visiting Terra Nova Monday night.

Terra Nova had previously been undefeated in North Peninsula League play. In other NPL games, Serramonte whipped Jefferson 64-30, El Camino downed Half Moon Bay 58-37 and South San Francisco beat Oceana 57-9.

Westmoor jumped out to a 31-23 first half edge with ball-hawking Sue Murray, Verna Castro (15 points) and Imsand (17 points) spearheading a Ram press.

Westmoor relatively sports a small 5-8, 5-6 and 5-2 front line (center Janet Heise and forwards Imsand and Maria Marti), but discovered that it could rebound against the taller Tigers.

"Short people really don't have too many rights in basketball," said Westmoor coach Jerry Littrell, "but they'll sometimes get you in the end. Our rebounding was superb tonight. Imsand (15 rebounds) and Heise (13 rebounds) were great."

But the Rams kept chipping away until, with 0:30 left, Heise scored on a garbage shot to put the Rams ahead 54-53.

TN's Jill Lucchetti hit the first of a one-and-one to tie it but missed the bonus shot.

Life Saved Every Two Days

By GEORGE GOLDING

Coast Guardsmen at San Francisco International Airport are perhaps the busiest lifesavers in the nation.

They average one life saved every two days, all year long. Some days there are none, some weekends there are dozens.

In addition, they assist 20 to 50 times as many people.

Saving lives includes hoisting people off cliffs, lifting them from boats in the Bay, or delivering medicine to stricken sailors far at sea.

Aiding and assisting includes towing boats off sandbars and safely ending a variety of other escapades that humans get themselves into.

Between rescues, which may occur at any point along the California Coast, inland as far as the Sierra or at sea as far as the Hawaiian Islands, the 224 enlisted men and 41 officers at San Francisco Coast Guard Air Station carry on numerous other tasks.

They assist in scientific studies of the ocean and its fisheries, enforce regulations of international fishing within coastal waters, search bays and rivers and beaches for polluters, and aid in law enforcement.

When 16 tons of marijuana were seized by federal narcotics officers on an Oregon beach one midnight earlier this month, the plane flying overhead with a bright light focussed on the suspects was a long-range four-engined aircraft out of San Francisco air station.

This is one of seven Coast Guard air stations around the nation that use the larger aircraft. Another 17 stations are equipped with helicopters only.

San Francisco air station, commanded by Capt. James I. Doughty, expects to go out of the fixed-wing business soon. By September, the long-range planes are to be operating out of McClellan Air Force Base near Sacramento, where there is more hangar space.

Until then, local Coast Guard aviators have three types of aircraft to use, as the job requires.

For assistance to troubled ships at sea, scientific missions and coastal fishing patrols, Coast Guard pilots use one of three Lockheed Hercules C-130s.

These have a range of 4,800 miles or 16 flying hours at a speed of just under 350 miles an hour.

They are fitted with inertial navigation systems which can pinpoint the plane's location anywhere on the globe within a half-mile.

They also have cavernous cargo space and rear cargo ramp doors that fold down flat like pickup truck tailgates. Safety-belted crewmen stand on these platforms and pitch out liferafts or emergency supplies when needed.

Too big to fit into the 40-year-old hangar at San Francisco Coast Guard Air Station, these planes are scheduled for the move to Sacramento.

There are also two smaller fixed-wing aircraft, the aging two-engine Grumman flying boats named "Albatrosses" but called "goats."

The Albatrosses were designed a quarter-century ago as amphibians. They have a boat-like hull and in former years were routinely landed on water.

Over the years, corrosion and rough seas took their toll, and the Albatrosses are no longer given such harsh treatment.

Flying at about 165 miles an hour, they have a range of about 10 hours flying time or 1,600 miles.

One of them is fitted with special electronic scanning gear and is used on monthly scientific missions which measure the temperature of ocean currents along a sawtooth course of specified points between Oregon and Mexico.

The third type of air vessel used locally is the Sikorsky H-52 helicopter, a flying lifeboat with only 2.5 hours range at 100 miles an hour.

The Sikorskys are used for short-range jobs, for plucking people off boats or cliffs, surveying shorelines, searching for sunken boats, and all other types of rescue work over mudflats, reefs and mountaintops.

"All missions are SAR divertible," said Lt. Steve Ziomek, the station's public affairs and ground safety officer, and pilot.

"SAR" means Search And Rescue, the Coast Guard's priority activity.

When a distress call comes, everything else stops.

"The operations officer on duty will make a snap decision and give the alarm which calls the 'ready' crew to the 'ready' aircraft for whatever effort is required," Ziomek said.

"Pretty much, we'll respond to anything. We'll crank up and go, and while we're en route we double check the call."

According to Lt. Dave Brown, a helicopter pilot, the operations officer on duty, (it is a rotating assignment), is a very active part of any rescue mission.

While pilots and air crews are on their way to a reported difficulty, the operations officer is double-checking the distress call.

"If we get a call direct from someone viewing a disaster," said Ziomek, "we try to get the caller's name or number so we can call back. Sometimes a 'copter reaches a location and can't find the reported wrecked ship or stranded person. We don't know if we have the wrong location or whether it's a prank call."

Most of the air station's nearly 800 emergency calls each year are relayed to it by the Coast Guard District rescue coordination center in San Francisco. Others come from police departments or sheriff's deputies.

Since rescue calls involve such a variety of dangers and potential dangers, Coast Guard planes are equipped to cope with various problems.

They carry hoists and baskets, liferafts, lifejackets and floats. They carry rope or line, fire extinguishers for boats on fire, pumps for boats with leaks, marker buoys, smoke flares, and sometimes emergency rations or water or fuel.

All Coast Guards members are multi-trained. They are mechanics or radiomen or medics as well as rescuers.

"Every crewman who flies in one of our aircraft is also a technician who works on our aircraft," said Ziomek.

"As a pilot, that gives you a comforting feeling."

The relationship between pilots and Coast Guard crew members, however, is a great deal more than simple appreciation of the others' talents.

The differences between ranks blur considerably, for example, when a helicopter pilot who is a commissioned officer finds himself landing his 'chopper in heavy surf according to the instructions of a non-commissioned crewman.

"In one of these things," said Lt. David Brown from the right seat of his Sikorsky, "you can't see a heck of a lot down over the side, from the pilot's seat.

"You're trying to drop a basket on a cable into a boat that is bouncing around on the sea, and you don't know without visual references whether you are flying forward or back.

"You depend on the crewman to tell you, because he can see."

Hospital Mate Denis Reynolds proved this as he and Lt. Brown went through a training exercise miles out from the Golden Gate, dropping their steel rescue basket into the deck well of a 41-foot Coast Guard patrol boat.

"Forward, forward," his voice droned in easy commands. "Basket going out, basket is clear of aircraft. Forward, forward. Basket is near the water, near the target. Forward, Foward. Target under the rotor, forward now, easy forward. Easy back."

When crewman Reynolds said "target under the rotor," Lt. Brown was flying his helicopter 25 feet above the sea and hovering above a boat that appeared to have 20-foot attennas.

Listening to Reynolds, he carefully eased the heavy copter into position so Reynolds could drop the basket into the boat, and retrieve it, while maintaining his five-foot margin of clearance.

"Clear to turn left," said Reynolds, and Brown wheeled away from the boat so close below.

"Crewmen are trained to keep calm," Brown said. "If they get excited the pilot tenses up, and there's no way you can fly one of these things in that condition."

In the larger planes, too, pilots who are commissioned officers learn to rely on non-commissioned crew members as navigators, engineers, radio and radar operators, and as "scanners" who also operate emergency equipment.

When a Coast Guard pilot prepares to drop medicine to a ship at sea, he does not simply tell the enlisted crew members what should be done, he also asks them how to do it.

"We flew 800 miles to sea, dropped two cans on a ship, and flew home," said one crew member after a recent mission.

The two cans contained medicine for a sick sailor. They were dropped by enlisted men in a ship navigated through two storms by enlisted men under the command of a commissioned pilot.

It is because of this teamwork, and years of experience, that the Coast Guard racks up such a record of lifesaving, one man said.

Averaging statistics for the past five years shows the San Francisco Air Station has answered 742 distress calls per year, saved 153 lives every 12 months and prevented $5.2 million in property loss annually.

Pilots at the local air station, said to be the most active in the Coast Guard, log a large number of flying hours.

Fixed-wing pilots who fly the longer missions may record 30 to 45 hours of flying time every month, said Lt. Ziomek. Helicopter pilots will log 20 to 30 hours in the air, he said. This is in addition to performing other duties.

For many of those flying hours, helicopter pilots and crew members are required to wear bright red foam rubber wet suits such as scuba divers wear, against the possibliity of landing in cold water.

"It's called a wet suit," said one pilot, "because you're wet with sweat when you wear it."

Despite the Coast Guard's tradition of multi-training, rescue people are not paramedics.

According to Chief George Gallagher, enlisted air crew training officer and engineer, Coast Guardsmen are merely trained in first aid.

"We try to get people out of danger and get them to the hospital, rather than attempting medical care," said Chief Gallagher.

"Ninety percent of our rescues occur with 10 minutes of a hospital.

"Of course, our people have enough first aid to stop serious bleeding, or things like that, but they are not paramedics.

"They have enough to do, rescuing people."

A PICKUP

Above, hospitalman Denis Reynolds, crewman on a helicopter rescue mission, acts as eyes for the pilot when the aircraft is in position to drop its sling to a disaster victim. Like the pilot, he wears a wet-suit, life jacket, and helmet, and is safety-belted at all times, especially while working near this open door to raise or lower the sling. Below, Coast Guard 'copter piloted by Lt. Cmdr. Ron Polant moves into position over small boat outside the Golden Gate with a rescue basket used to lift injured people from boats, or stranded people from cliffs.
